After a few minutes you should receive a response email. The next step depends on whether the email contains a license for Hive

You already own Hive 2.x!

If you bought your Hive 1.x license after January 20th 2019, you should automatically have a Hive 2.x serial in your license email.

You own Hive 1.x

If a serial number for Hive 1.x is listed in your license email, but no serial number for Hive 2.x, then you can purchase the upgrade.

Please purchase with the email address your Hive 1.x license is registered to, or the purchase will fail.

Can't see your Hive 1.x license?

If you're sure you own a Hive 1.x license but it isn't in your license email, it was probably registered under a different email address.

You can register Hive 2.x!

Note: If you already own a previous version of Hive (e.g. 1.2) and you're not sure whether you want to upgrade or not, you can of course check out Hive 2 in demo mode. But as Hive 2 will overwrite your current installation, we strongly recommend making a backup of all your presets first. If you want to go back from Hive 2 to Hive 1.x, we recommend that you delete the presets directory and the plug-in files before reinstalling.
