About Aiyn Zahev

My name is Sami Rabia, I'm a sound designer based in Maryland USA. I started programming synths around 2002. At first it was purely out of necessity, having only basic tools to work with I learned the value of getting the sound right at the source.

When I joined the KVR community I realized the skills I had developed could be useful to others. Besides the encouragement from members, I had a pressing need to upgrade my computer, u-he's Diva had just gone into beta, and it had completely revamped my interest in electronic music production.

In 2012 I formed Aiyn Zahev Sounds, hoping to raise enough funds for a more powerful PC, capable of running the new wave of CPU-intensive plugins. Although my intention was to serve dance music producers, as is obvious from any of my audio demos, the sound design I do spills over into a number of other styles and has enjoyed success with a wider audience than I originally expected.

With this bank I was able to step back a little and think about some new avenues. My EDM background certainly comes through here, it underpins everything I do, but I also had clear intent to cover new ground.

I drew inspiration from video games, TV & Movie scores and of course techno. I sincerely hope it becomes a useful tool in your productions.
